

Success stories happen everyday. To read about more successful stories involving public hospitals please visit <http://caph.org/content.doingaworldofgood.htm> .

If you have a similar story of success from a public hospital please visit www.caph.org/patientstories

When Bryony was diagnosed with cancer, her public hospital said “we’re going to cure her.”

A world of hope. Found in a world of good.

Bryony was 18 when she started feeling a little tired. Her doctor ran some blood tests, and immediately knew she was seriously ill. “Get her to an ER – now,” he said.

Bryony went to Riverside County Regional Medical Center – her local public hospital – where doctors discovered she had Acute Myeloid Leukemia. Her mom asked what would happen next. “We’re going to cure her,” they said, and for nearly a year, they treated her. The chemotherapy was so intense, Bryony was hospitalized for weeks at a time. The medical center became her second home, and the staff became her second family.

Now Bryony’s cancer has been in remission for almost two years. While it’s too soon to say she’s cured, it’s not too soon to believe it’s possible.

We’re California’s public hospitals, and we’re here when you need us.

CALIFORNIA'S PUBLIC HOSPITALS.
DOING A WORLD OF GOOD.™

California Association of Public Hospitals and Health Systems
Share your story with us. Log on to www.caph.org/patientstories.

